Lions install Carl Ewert as new president

Carl Ewert became president of the Arlington Heights Lions club Tuesday evening at their installation ceremonies at which some 80 Lions and guests attended. A chicken dinner was served by the Dorcas Aid society in the St. Peter's school hall.

Russ Boehm, district governor of Lions International presided at the installation ceremonies. Other officers installed for the year 1941-42 were Virgil Hoarsh, 1st vice president; Otto Wulbeck, 2nd vice president; Wm. Lussman, 3rd vice president; Walter Kroeber, fourth vice president; Harry Levine, tail twister; Anthony Scolaro, Lion tamer, and Stuart Paddock, Jr., secretary-treasurer. New directors were J. D. Flentje, Alfred Jasper, W. F. Karstens, Nicholas Lattof, and Ernest Malzahn.

Walter Karstens, retiring president and Nicholas Lattof, retiring secretary, presented their annual reports of the club. One of the most active and community betterment programs the club has ever experienced was revealed in Karstens report. Supplying milk and eye glasses to many needy children in the local school was provided by the Lions. "We're in the Movies," full length film with local characters and plot, which was shown to over 2,500 people in three performances last January.

Cooperation with the Trade and Civic organization in the Fourth of July celebration has also swollen the community service fund. This fund is used strictly for such projects as the eye glass and milk enterprises.

Fifty patrol boys and girls were entertained at dinner and shown a safety film. Numerous lectures on international developments and national affairs helped to clarify the war situation to Lion members. A bowling league in which 25 Lions participated was a highlight of the Lions social curriculum as well as several interclub meetings and get togethers.

Financially, the service club has a bigger balance than ever before and is prepared to carry on its community purposes.

An ingenious impersonator, Dawson Butler, a member of the Geneva Lions club, entertained the club after the dinner Tuesday with several Hollywood impersonations. Richard Terrier of Mooseheart, presented several vocal selections. Nicholas Lattof this month became the new deputy district governor of District 1-F, Boehm announced. His active work in Lionism here is now extended over 14 clubs in this area. Ed Flaminius, of Des Plaines, the new zone chairman under Lattof, was also present at the meeting.

Park board to pass U. S. tax on to adult bathers

Arlington Heights park board in its efforts to balance the swimming budget is required to pass on to the adult bathers the government amusement tax. After July 12 single adult admissions will be 30c each in place of the present 25 cents. No increase will be made in children's tickets or in the season tickets. The park district paid Uncle Sam nearly $50 last year.

Carl Ewert was handed the Lions club presidential reins on the club's installation night, Tuesday, as the new officers for the 1941-42 year were installed by the Lion's District Governor, Russ Boehm. Ewert is "no greenhorn" in Lionism, having served one of the longest terms on record as secretary-treasurer before becoming vice president in 1939. His popularity and resourcefulness is expected to carry the club to even greater heights of community service.

Arlington mayor Takes police car off highway

If any motorist gets pinched for speeding through Arlington Heights hereafter, it will not be an Arlington Heights cop who makes the pinch. Mayor Goedke has received assurance from the state police authorities that their men will take over the responsibility of patrolling the Northwest highway through Arlington Heights.

Local police will still be responsible for stop sign violations, but "never again," states Mayor Goedke, "will anybody be able to say that Arlington Heights is operating a speed trap."

Local police will be able to give more attention to other sections of the town and handle minor police duties.

Kiwanis club is organized in Arlington

Arlington Heights now has a second service club. The organization of the Arlington Heights Kiwanis club was completed this week with Attorney W. Edw. Fritz as president; Wm. Neumann, vice president; and Rev. Schellhase, secretary and treasurer.

Meetings will be held every Wednesday noon at 12:15. Charter night will probably be August 14.

Nail lodges in throat, baby coughs it up on way to doctor

Little Danforth Wright, year and one-half old child of Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Wright of Wheeling, had a narrow escape from choking to death last week when a 2-inch roofing nail was lodged in his throat. While his mother was rushing him to a doctor, the nail was fortunately loosened and coughed up before they reached the office.

Rev. Kossack resigns as village clerk

Accepts call to Presby. church at Crivitz, Wis.

Rev. H. A. Kossack, who was elected Arlington Heights village clerk last April, presented his resignation Monday evening at the close of the regular session of the Arlington Heights village board. A special election will be called at once to fill the vacancy. Wm. J. Meyer, Jr., assistant treasurer, will act as clerk pro tem until an elected official qualifies.

Rev. Kossack served the Arlington Heights Presbyterian church as its pastor fourteen years. The past year while awaiting a call to a new pastorate, he has remained in Arlington and was a successful candidate for village clerk at the last municipal election.

In explaining his resignation Monday evening to a village trustee Rev. Kossack said, "after being in the ministry 29 years, there is no other place where I would be happy."

His resignation was immediately accepted. He left Thursday for his new charge at Crivitz, Wis.

The first inquiry of the boys about town when they heard the news was "Is there good fishing up there?"

Mt. Prospect family filing suit against Des Plaines chief

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Koester, Mt. Prospect have two lively boys of 5 and 7 years respectively. They are so lively that the Des Plaines police department apparently fears that they will grow up to become bad men some day.

That department had the boys taken to the juvenile court last May when they were found driving an automobile. The story of the boys' experiences at that time was given nation wide publicity, a picture appearing in the Life magazine and a Harvard professor was quoted in an editorial that appeared in the Chicago Daily News shortly thereafter. The professor said, "that it is the same impulse displayed by these two boys when they took their joy auto ride that has given this country its present machine age."

The boys again visited Des Plaines June 30. They left home to go swimming at the Des Plaines pool. They had been forbidden by the juvenile judge to again ride in their aunt's car, in which their older sister had been taken to the pool. Arriving at Des Plaines depot they found they had left their swim suits in the railroad park at Mt. Prospect. While waiting for a train to return home, the police appeared on the scene.

Possibly with memories of the wide publicity given Des Plaines in the last escapade, the boys were again placed into custody and their parents not notified until three hours later. Pleas of their mother that the boys had done nothing wrong and should be left to parental authority, were unavailing and the following day a second trip to the juvenile court was necessary.

The above story almost seems unbelievable, but there is sufficient whole cloth in it to be cause for a civil suit against the police chief and one of the newspapers which published a perverted story last week.

The law firm of Siebel & Siebel has been retained to handle the suits. The case against the police chief is false arrest. The case against the newspaper is slander.

Sparkler causes death of Wheeling seven-year-old

Seven year old Norma Jean Lambert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Lambert and residing on Dundee rd. east of Milwaukee ave., Wheeling, was fatally injured Thursday evening when she reached for a sparkler that had been dropped by a passing auto and was struck by a second vehicle.

Norma Jean was rushed to the Wheeling hospital where she failed to regain consciousness, passing away later in the evening.

The Lamberts with their four children came to Illinois from Indiana four years ago, living in the Mohr home in Wheeling since December.

Services were held at the Lauer Northbrook chapel with Rev. H. Lundell officiating. Burial was in Hammond, Indiana.

Free parking for carnival visitors

Visitors to the American Legion carnival which opens next Tuesday in Arlington Heights will find free parking for their cars at Winkelman's Tire & Battery Shop. The parking lot in the rear of the Winkelman business establishment is convenient and will be in charge of a watchman to assure full protection.

Two groups set meetings to consider national defense

The general public is being invited through an advertisement which appears on page two of this edition to attend a meeting to be held in the Arlington Heights high school auditorium Friday evening, July 18. The program will be in the form of a discussion group, which will be led by men outstanding in their respective fields.

The call comes from a group of men of Arlington Heights and vicinity who term themselves "sincere Americans." The audience will be urged to ask questions. There will be no admission charge.

Dr. William Gellermann, professor at Northwestern university will give an address of the present European war and its effects on the United States of America at the Arlington Heights field house Tuesday evening, July 15, 1941, at 8:30 o'clock.

Dr. Gellermann will speak under the auspices of the Arlington Heights Chapter of the America First Committee, which urges the public to come and hear about the proposed referendum on the U. S. actually entering the war.

Henry Klehm, former mayor and nurseryman dies

Henry C. Klehm, mayor of Arlington Heights 1905-1907, passed away July 4 at the home of his son, Supervisor Gilbert J. Klehm, on Palatine rd., Arlington Heights. The funeral was held Monday afternoon at the Lauterburg & Oehl funeral home, Rev. H. A. Kossack officiating. Interment was in Arlington Heights cemetery.

Mr. Klehm has been seriously ill since last November when he sustained a stroke while on a boat near Baltimore, Maryland. He was taken to hospital and later to a rest home at Berwyn, Pa.

Gradually growing worse, he was brought back to his home town two weeks ago. Until the last few hours he had his full mental faculties, and enjoyed telling reminiscences of his younger days, speaking of old time friends, a few of whom had the privilege of calling on him.

Deceased, a son of the late John Klehm, founder of the Klehm Nurseries, devoted his life to growing things. The past ten years he operated a propagating nursery in Virginia, supplying other nurserymen with seedlings.

Early this century Mr. Klehm took a great interest in civic affairs. He served as village trustee and was elected mayor on a reform ticket in the days when factional politics ran rampant in Arlington Heights.

Henry Klehm was born in 1870. He spent his boyhood here and followed the footsteps of his father as a nurseryman. He took a great interest in the development of the Moline elm. He married Miss Pauline Steuengel Sept. 25, 1898, who survives him. Children are three sons, Gilbert, Elmer, Harvey and a daughter, Mrs. Vera O'Keefe of Chicago. There are four grandchildren, and two brothers, Charles and George.

Age vs. youth, softball lineup in USO benefit

Tonight, Thursday, July 10, will be played the game to settle the old question of youth vs. experience.

Of paramount interest, however, is the cause for which these teams meet, namely, the United Service organization. This alone is enough to draw the greatest crowd in Arlington sports' history. Home folks and visitors alike can help their friends by attending and dropping their bit in the hat, for the money realized will be but part of a nation-wide pool being raised to furnish club houses and amusements for the boys in the camps.

Of particular interest to all who attend will be the chance to see the former "league greats" perform. The "oldsters" are still being coy but they could put a lineup something like this:

McKaig, ss, E. Thompson ss, G. Thompson, 2b, Milligan, 3b, Wiese lf, Meyer 1b, Luerssen, p-c.

Bensie, of, Boeger, of, Duenn of, Stippick, p, Peters c, Baldwin of-p, Hoeft, of, Vedrick of, L. Stefanik lf.

Maybe the legs have slowed a little but the old "bean" is still ticking more steady and cagier than ever. To the old power swing they have, most of them added a "little" about the waist to give added impetus to their hitting endeavor.

As for the youngsters, this is a real opportunity for league fans to see them apart from the crowd. All players selected are performing for the first time in the local softball league. The roster of the youngsters:

Gaare's—Bublitz 3b, Barms 2b, Bensensville—Eickelman p, Robertson 3b.

Heidorn—Luehring 1b, Hull of, Hopper (Mt. P.)—Busse c, Bock ss.

C.Y.O.—L. K. Brodnan c, Minella p-of.

Creamery Pkg.—E. Coon of, E. Jirum p.

Leo-T. Kouzmanoff ss, A. Amstedt of.

The society of Christian Service of the Methodist church will open a Saturday Thrift shop. Watch this paper for further notice.

Arlington employees given a blanket raise

Arlington Heights village employees received a $10 per month increase in salary Monday night. The pay addition started July 1 and adds $1,300 to the municipal budget for the current year. A special ordinance authorizing the increase was passed by the board without a dissenting vote. Increased salaries have been on the fire ever since the April election. With the exception of two-employees the increases were all $10.

Building permits for June totaled $80,300, divided as follows: Four residences$33,500 Arlington Theatre 40,000 Legion home 6,000 House alterations 900 Garages 350

Arlington Heights will make no return this year on delinquent special assessments. Arlington's share of motor fuel tax for June is $1,103.80, which has been credited to the village by the state highway department.

High school has asked permission to lay a cement walk adjacent to the curb from Euclid to the athletic field along the west side of their property.

The small truck of the water department is to have another lease on life by the exchange of its motor at a cost of $79. New tires will be next. "It is cheaper than buying a new truck," said an alderman.

Bills and payroll approved Monday night totaled $2,047.01. The three village wells in service furnished a total of 16,200,000 gallons during June, or 533,000 gallons a day.

Mayor Goedke appointed the following as members of the Plan Commission:

Chairman—Carl M. Behrens. Secretary—Herman A. Kossack. Members—Peter B. Atwood, Karl L. Busse, Joseph J. Jirak, Henry F. Muller, Ernst H. Malzahn, Geo. W. Meyer, Charles Pingel, Henry C. W. Meyer, M. W. Grigsby, Nat T. Burfield, Wm. J. Bendien, Peter J. Mors, Ardon C. Wilcox, Walter Kroeber, Edward W. Fritz, Otto H. Wulbeck, Edward C. Coy, Richard F. Wilke, Martin W. Engkeling.

The following village officers to serve in an advisory capacity—Hugo J. Thal, village attorney; Arthur W. Consoer, engineer; Paul C. Taegge, building commissioner; Wm. F. Meyer, Jr., assistant collector; John Allen, zoning board of appeals commissioner.

Arlington to join nation in an Aluminum Day

Mayor Goedke announced to the Arlington Heights board members Monday night that he had secured the consent of Homer J. Byrd to serve as general chairman of an All-Arlington Heights Service Organization, whose responsibility it will be to handle all patriotic appeals and local endeavors pertaining to national defense that may be properly brought to the official attention of the mayor.

Its first job will be to organize a canvass of all homes in the village for used aluminum on July 21 in accordance with the request of Dwight H. Green, governor of Illinois. Announcement of the appointment of Mr. Byrd appears in another column.

Receive first returns from local USO campaign

The village of Arlington Heights may or may not do as well as Palatine and other communities in meeting their USO quotas, but there are three districts that have gone over the top for the boys in army camps. The St. John church group, Emil Baumgarten, captain and the P.T.A. women, of which Mrs. Homer J. Byrd is chairman, have completed their canvass and have made a second call for the stragglers.

Mr. Bittner and his workers of the Catholic groups have nearly completed the solicitation of their district.

Partial reports have been made by many of the other workers. Through a typographical error in last week's paper, district 8 was credited to John W. Schwolow. It should have been printed "district 8—St. Peter Lutheran church, John W. Schwolow, chairman."

Solicitors have learned that many Arlington Heights people have made their contributions in Chicago, but if those who have not done so will rally to the call Arlington can still meet its quota in spite of the late start here.

All district chairmen are asked to attend a meeting in the municipal building at 8:30 Friday evening and have their reports as near complete at that time as possible.

Army boys home for the 4th bring back word of the great need for recreational facilities. Arlington Heights is asked to do something about it. The quicker Arlington Heights and other communities have their USO funds reported that much sooner will the boys in camp be benefited.

Old Folks Home festival to attract thousands here

Governor Green to speak

The Old Folks Home of Arlington Heights will be the scene of the annual festival which will draw thousands of Lutherans from congregations throughout northern Illinois, this Sunday.

Unusual interest has been added to this year's festival by the appearance of Dwight Green, Governor of Illinois, who will speak briefly on a non-political subject. With him on the platform will be seated Werner Schroeder, National Committeeman for Illinois and Win. Busse, County Commissioner.

Two divine services will be held on the shady lot across the home. Arrangements are being made to provide outdoor seating for an audience of 3,000. Pastor John Rozak of Chicago will preach the sermon in the German worship at 11 a. m. In the afternoon worship, which begins at 3 p. m., the Rev. E. B. Glabe of Minneapolis will address the congregation. The latter speaker is a recognized leader in Lutheran welfare circles and because of his speaking talents is in constant demand in the church.

Stirring music will be provided by the Elmhurst Lutheran band under the baton of W. J. Bertram. Anthems will be sung by the choir of the local church, directed by Arnold Bathje. A variety concert is offered during the noon period and at the close of the afternoon worship.

Complete amplification facilities will be provided by Mr. Herman Hinz. Refreshments and lunches may be obtained at the stands. Free parking is available.

In consideration of the festival the local Lutheran church is omitting its morning services.

Arrangements are in charge of the Board of Directors. Following are its members: Jacob Wagemann, president; Rev. Henry Blanke, secretary; Arthur A. Maina, vice president; Wm. A. Narten, treasurer; Rev. Harry C. Fricke, chaplain; George A. Herzog, H. H. Hall, Geo. F. Meyer, Mrs. W. F. Drexnit, Mrs. M. L. Boettcher, Mrs. Albert Mueller, Mrs. A. Troyke.

Mrs. Julius Stahmer is the superintendent of the home.

Elmhurst May close swim pool reason — in red

Will Elmhurst's $100,000 swimming pool "dry up" for lack of public support?

That's the question which was scheduled to come before a mass meeting of Elmhurst residents Monday night in a determined effort by the Legion post there to avoid the closing down of the pool.

One of the few pools in the state to hold the highest rating of AA given by the state board of health, the Elmhurst pool has been losing money for the past three summers.

The Legion is issuing invitations to groups to be represented at the meeting summed up the situation as follows:

"We are now greatly concerned with the fact that the most valuable recreational facility ever made available to our citizens has not paid its own way for the past three years. A continuation of operating losses can lead to only one action by the park board — the abandonment of the pool."

Aluminum Day Proclamation

In response to a telegraphic request from the Honorable Dwight H. Green, Governor of the State of Illinois, I do hereby designate Monday, July 21st, 1941, as Arlington Heights Aluminum Day on which date an organized canvass of all Arlington Heights homes for aluminum articles that can be spared and donated towards a Community Pool of Aluminum for National Defense will be made.

To further this effort and to foster and co-ordinate all Service Drives and Patriotic Appeals in the Interest of the Defense of our United States, I desire to create herewith an all-Arlington Heights Service Organization, I do hereby commission, the Honorable Homer J. Byrd to perfect such an organization from representative groups within our Village.

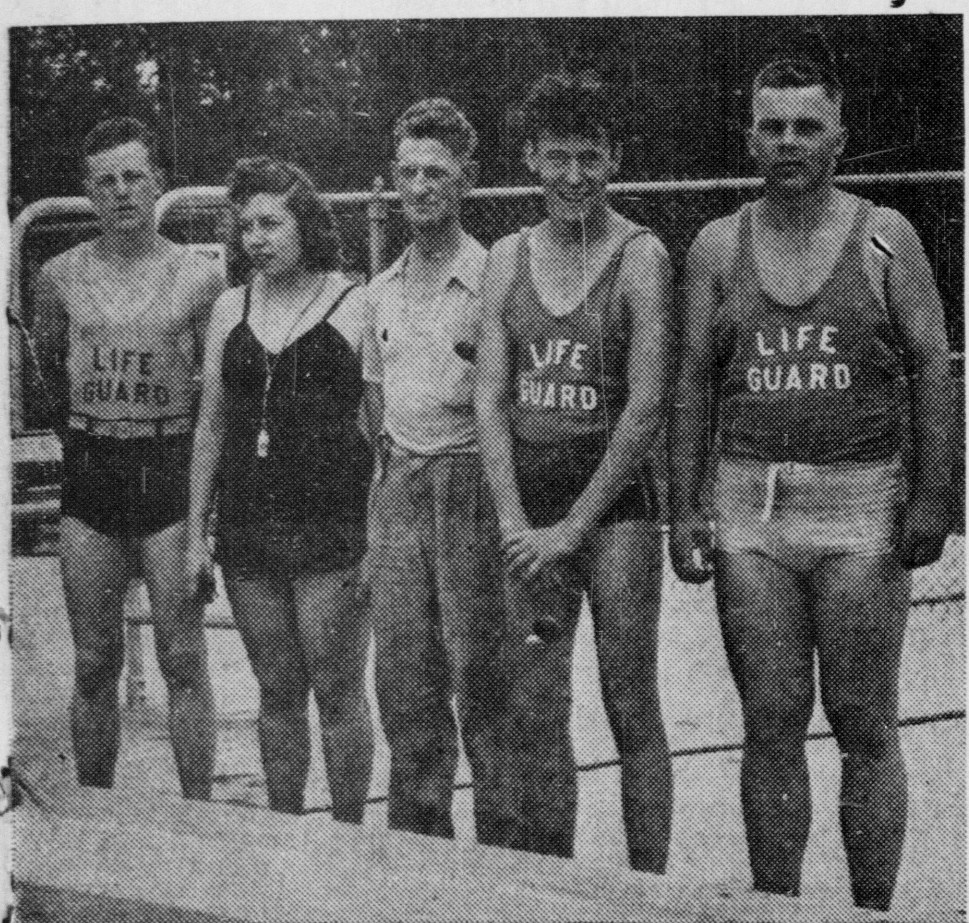

To this new all-Arlington Heights and all-American organization I shall refer all patriotic appeals and endeavors pertaining to the National Defense that may be properly brought to my official attention.

I shall charge this organization with the task of perpetuating with patriotic fervor the good name of Arlington Heights as a loyal, front rank component of our great State and Nation.

The concern of this new commission shall not be limited to materials alone nor to money or other quotas. The interests of our own service men shall be the paramount issue of the A. H. S. O. to give our own men in Service a home town sponsor where home interests will find cooperative and mutual understanding.

ALBERT W. GOEDKE, Mayor.

It's 'safe going' at the Arlington Pool

Due to the size of the swimming classes Miss Rueppel was relieved of her life guard duties and is handling two swim classes.

Other employees are Howard Prout, deck patrol; Mrs. Albertine Fricke, women inspector; Mary Haseman, nurse; Arlene Thomas, cashier. Joe Gehring is a part time man. There are other employees in the lockers room.

TO YOU AND EVERYONE A CORDIAL INVITATION

BELIEVING sincerely that the future of a great democracy, such as ours, is entirely dependent upon the sane, clear and unbiased thinking of its citizens, and

REALIZING that only when problems are thoroughly understood can clear thinking become possible, A GROUP OF SINCERE AMERICANS from Arlington Heights and vicinity have arranged for a series of informal, forum type discussions to be held at the Arlington Heights high school auditorium beginning Friday evening, July 18th, at 8:15 p. m.

A group of outstanding men in their respective fields — political science, history, economics, sociology and finance — have been invited, to lead these discussions.

It is hoped the audience will feel free to ask any questions which may help them gain a clearer understanding of the vital problems faced by our country.

There will be no admission charge and everyone is welcome.

Our Cub pack

Is it worth while for a group of public spirited men to give two to three nights a week to a group of boys between the ages of 9 and 12?

Who are these men who ably trained and drilled these boys during the past year? They are Mr. Clarence Stadler of the American Legion, Mr. Cubley, cubmaster, Mr. Oscar Kurtz, pack committee chairman, Mr. C. V. Baker, secretary and the Den Dads, Messrs. Deiber, Lathen, Jones, Williams, Farrell, Sachs, Archibald and Hartman. These men have done a very fine job.

Good leadership is very important in anything but without good workmen it will not go very far. These boys have worked very hard and deserve most of the credit for their accomplishments.

What is this cubbing all about? Well in a swiftly moving world where mountains are tunneled over night, movies and speech circle the globe, also science is ever discovering new values in nature; in such a world our cub must live. To do their part they need to know and to do and to be.

The cubbing program is one of action in doing and making things. This brotherhood of ideals, squareness and fellowship is a ladder to be climbed by the boy who wants to go forward.

Cubbing is for boys from 9 to 12 and is part of the National Boy Scout movement. Any boy who wants to do and make things may join providing he will follow the cub motto to Do His Best. When anything is publicly celebrated in Arlington Heights, you will find our Cub Pack doing their part.

Baseball is an important part of our Cub program. At present cub pack No. 232 of Arlington Heights

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"God" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, July 6.

The Golden Text was, "I am the Lord thy God, the Holy One of Israel, thy Saviour" (Isaiah 43: 3).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "I will extol thee, my God, O king; and I will bless thy name for ever and ever. Every day will I bless thee; and I will praise thy name for ever and ever. Great is the Lord, and greatly to be praised; and his greatness is unsearchable. One generation shall praise thy works to another, and shall declare thy mighty acts. I will speak of the glorious honour of thy majesty, and of thy wondrous works" (Psalms 145: 1-5).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "All substance, intelligence, wisdom, being, immortality, cause, and effect belong to God. These are His attributes, the eternal manifestations of the infinite divine Principle, Love. No wisdom is wise but His wisdom; no truth is true, but His truth; no life is life, but the divine; no good is, but the good God bestows" (p. 275).

It Happened Here

The heat wave broke in the night and the earth exhaled a long-held breath; the morning sky curled like stale milk and the air, long so clabber, was full of wings and pleasant stir, every one drinking greedily of the refreshment blowing in from the north; cardinal whistling in at the windows, brown thrasher skittering after bugs and insects in the border, killdeer calling, flicker drilling a dead branch and the mourning dove like Marianna in the Moated Grange softly grieving, "He cometh not; every one busy at chores neglected while the thermometer worked over time. School is out and the streets and alleys boil up with children like dragon's teeth sprouted over night. Could we, like rural England, crowd in a few evacuees like those who plucked the feathers from all the fowls and left the hen yard full of naked and protesting squawks? Their prototypes go down the alley stripping greenery from the tree of heaven. The vacant lot is putting on the guise of a meadow, knee deep in grasses, brightened with patches of brown-eyed Susans and daisies and with a gorgeous clump of orange lilies against the old fence. . . . Edward says a baby robin perched on the bath room window sill and watched him shave, Saturday morning; it got entangled in the vine but finally made its escape to the lower branch of the alanthus tree where it was observed standing up very tall, opening and shutting its bill rapidly and going thru various singular contortions. . . . Our Colorado correspondent writes: "The pea patch looks lovely and has yielded three freight car loads of peas but so far has made the farmer no profit whatever, due to hail damage and expenses of hauling, picking, seed, crates and so forth." That, to paraphrase Calvin Coolidge, seems like an awful lot of peas—but not a great deal of profit.

Arlington Boy, Girl Taught Functions of Government at Illini Boys and Girls State

Paul Merrill has a busy week at Springfield

Marian Hartdke chosen state auditor of public accounts

Paul Merrill, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Merrill of 501 E. Euclid ave., Arlington Heights, spent the week of June 28 to July 5 in Springfield, where he attended the Premier Boys' State held at the state fair grounds. This was the seventh annual assembly of the Boys' State, conceived in Illinois seven years ago, the Boys' State has now been adopted by the American Legion's Americanism program for the training of youth in practical citizenship. Mr. Hayes Kennedy, president of the Boys' State organization, explains that the elections and the operation of model governments at Boys' State give the boys experience in "actualities not theory."

Attendance at Boys' State is limited to young men between the ages of 16 and 19, who have not gone to college. Selections are made from those with high scholastic ratings and general excellence in school activities.

Upon arrival at Boys' State each boy is assigned to a city and a county, there being 40 cities and 10 counties, which are named in honor of past presidents of the American Legion. Paul was assigned to "Smith City" in "Drain County." Officers for these model cities and counties were elected, courts were established and a police force formed. All these activities were carried out by the 1,280 boys selected from Illinois' 102 counties. Paul was elected alderman of the first ward of Smith City and was also health officer of that city. He was also reporter for the supreme court.

The day's activities started at 7:20 a. m. with the raising of the flag. Two assemblies were held each day, morning and evening, and these were presided over by Mr. Kennedy. Also classes were held each morning, and the boys attended the civil service school, the election school or the law school. Afternoons were devoted to athletics, sports and special pleasure. The flag was lowered each evening at 5:45. Lights were out and the boys were in bed at 10:00 p. m. It is interesting to note that when the first group attended Boys' State seven years ago, they slept in cow barns on the fair grounds, while this year the group had fine accommodations in new barracks.

A very fine band, composed of 100 pieces selected from 500 applications, entertained each evening. There was also a 50 piece drum and bugle corps. The boys edited a local paper which was distributed daily.

On Tuesday afternoon the boys were taken to visit points of interest in Springfield.

Thursday the state elections climaxed the week's activities. At the assembly Thursday evening, Governor Dwight Green administered the oath of office to Arthur Lennon of Joliet, who was elected governor, at the fairground ceremonies.

Friday morning, July Fourth, Senator Wayland Brooks delivered a patriotic address at Boys' State, on the subject of "The Citizen of Tomorrow." He reminded his listeners that they would become the leaders of tomorrow, and urged them to prepare for that service. Paul says that the one thing he will never forget is Mr. Brooks' quotation from words of President Jackson, "Thank God I Am An American."

At the final assembly on Saturday morning badges and honors were awarded. Each boy received a diploma upon completion of his course in citizenship.

Paul is very enthusiastic over his opportunity to participate in this very fine training course which has been made available to more than 1,200 young men in Illinois. He

Miss Marian Hartdke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Hartdke of Arlington Heights, has returned from Jacksonville, Ill., where she attended the Illini Girls' State, which was held on the campus of McMurray College for Women, from June 28 to July 5. She was sponsored by the Merle Guild Unit No. 208, the American Legion Auxiliary.

Marian feels that her experiences at Illini Girls' State and its purpose, let it be said that it has behind it the idea of furthering young women's education in government. Through whole-hearted co-operation of the women counselors and the girls themselves, a rather thorough study of city, county, and state government was crowded into a week's time.

"Before all the activity had begun everyone was wondering how all of the planned procedure could be carried out, and at the end of the week most of the girls still could not understand how they had ever accomplished so much."

"After rising at 6:45 a. m., we all gathered on the campus of McMurray College to witness the raising of the flag. As the last strains of the national anthem died away there followed a dash for the dining hall. The food served was wonderful, and better still we could have all we wanted."

"At 8:45 most of us joined a parliamentary procedure class which was an optional course. Instruction, explanation, and discussion of Robert's Rules of Order were furnished by Mrs. Marie Suthers of Chicago, and then time was given to the girls to hold model meetings and practice making motions and amendments in the proper manner. During our assemblies which were held in the morning and in the evening, we listened to such speakers as Mrs. Laura Hughes Lunds of Chicago, who spoke on city and county government, the honorable Ernest Hoaglund, Mayor of Jacksonville, the honorable John Kapp, Mayor of Springfield, the honorable Hugh Green, member of the General Assembly of Illinois, and Mrs. Hugh Beggs."

"Following our morning assemblies we returned to our respective cities and counties to which we had been assigned. Eighteen girls were assigned to a city and two cities composed a county. Temporary mayors and city clerks were appointed until elections could be held for the various city offices. When these positions were finally filled, badges and certificates were given out. If a girl obtained a higher office she was asked to resign her previous one so that all girls present might have a chance to fill some office. Thus we formed our county and state governments as well. At the city meetings we also had time to study from our textbooks and ask questions before we were given our daily quizzes has carried home with him a very genuine appreciation of the fine fellowship displayed and of the functions and principles of government as taught.

His attendance at Boys' State was sponsored by the Merle Guild Post No. 208 of the American Legion. Paul feels deeply grateful to them for making it possible for him to have a part in this great training school for the citizens of tomorrow.

each afternoon. "The Nationalists and Federalists composed our two political parties. On Tuesday evening party conventions were held and nominees for the direct primaries (to be held the following day) were selected. Wednesday morning the primaries were held and that same evening we had our "Campaign Night."

"During this time regular city and county board meetings were being held as well as sessions of the General Assembly."

"Thursday afternoon at 1:00 p. m. the state elections were held. Miss Nancy Kellman of Park Ridge was elected Governor; Miss Lois Pearson of Des Plaines, Lieutenant Governor; Miss Doris Dora of Danville, Secretary of State; Miss Audrey Babcock of Aledo, State Treasurer; Miss Mary Beth Robinson of Jacksonville, Attorney General; Miss Helen Norder of Mount Olive, Superintendent of Public Instruction; Miss Doris Lindberg of Chicago, Speaker of the House of Representatives; and myself, State Auditor of Public Accounts."

"Thursday evening after the excitement of the election had calmed the girls held their stunt night. Each city, as well as the officials of '40 and '41 were asked to present a stunt of some sort for the entire assembly. Up until that time no one had really appreciated all the talent which was present. Singers, pianists, dancers, readers, imitators and actresses were some of the many artists which were found among the Girl State."

"Very capable young women compiled a daily page called the 'Illini Girls' State' which was published in the Jacksonville paper. A post office and bank were also set up in the office of Main Hall. "Each day a group of girls was taken on tour to Springfield where visits were made to the immortal Lincoln's tomb, the Capitol building and other spots of interest. We also had the privilege of calling on Governor Green. On Wednesday and Thursday afternoon some of us were taken to Springfield to broadcast over station WTAX."

"During the afternoon of July 4, we held our Independence Day services under the trees on the beautiful campus. Mr. Everett Dirksen, Congressman of the 16th District, spoke to us on 'A Day in July Long Ago.' Mrs. Dirksen was on the staff of counselors."

"At 6:00 p. m. we held our formal inaugural banquet in McClelland Hall. Mrs. Frances Mieczynski introduced our speakers. Mrs. Melville Muckelstone, a past national president of the American Legion Auxiliary, and Mr. Wm. F. Waugh, Commander of the American Legion. Various awards were presented for such accomplishments as solo work in music, handwriting, the typical Illini girl, the 'Spirit of Illini' high scores on tests, and athletic ratings."

"Immediately following the banquet I had the honor of being asked to sing for Dean and Mrs. Dyringer of McMurray College. Mrs. Donohoe, of Jacksonville, and Mrs. Pauline Rinaker of Carlinville, in the lounge of the beautiful Ann Rutledge Hall."

"Saturday morning we held our final assembly with the '41 officers presiding. Orders of departure were given and we adjourned. After luncheon at 12:30 the final goodbyes were expressed and the train pulled out for home. After a week of extensive and fascinating work we carried home with us not only a clear understanding of government, its organization and administration, but a better knowledge of how to live with people, how to understand and respect the property and feelings of others, and deep down in our hearts we learned the true meaning of respect and love for our flag as the living symbol of a living nation."

Prenuptial parties for Shirley Tatge of Mt. Prospect

Miss Shirley Tatge of Mt. Prospect who was married on Saturday to Robert F. Page of Deerfield was guest of honor recently at four bridal showers given in her honor.

A personal shower was given for the bride to be on June 6 at the home of Luella Gerken of Mt. Prospect when a pink and white color scheme carried out the shower plan.

At the second party which was given by the sister of the bride, Laverne, at the home of Mrs. Milton Sporleder in Mt. Prospect, pink and white was again the color scheme carried out with small umbrellas. A large bell and pink and white streamers led the bride to her gift table, when she received many miscellaneous gifts.

An aluminum shower was given by two aunts of the bride, Mrs. Einer Rundbloom and Mrs. Harold Spang at the Rundbloom home in Chicago. The center of the table was decorated with a small bride made from kitchen utensils, a dish mop forming the hair, a wooden spoon the face, and egg separator for a hat, and she carried a small tea ball with flowers in it in one hand and a tiny pitcher in the other. Her red and white paper dress had its pockets filled with miniature kitchen utensils and it made an attractive center piece indeed. The gifts were all in decorated boxes.

The fourth shower was a bathroom shower given by the sisters of the groom at the home of Mrs. Wesley Striker of Deerfield. A color scheme of aqua and yellow was carried out with streamers and umbrellas, and in the refreshments.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore for her wedding a lovely gown of white silk jersey, fashioned along simple lines, with a pleated skirt and a long train. Her veil of white tulle lace trimmed was of finger tip length and was held in place by a tiara of seed pearls. Her flowers were a spray of gardenias and she wore a string of pearls.

A calligraphic message served as a favor for the guests.

The bride and groom left on Tuesday for a trip to Florida, and from there will go to their future home in Albany, Georgia, where the groom is employed in the Darr's Airport.

The bride is a graduate of the local high school and has been employed by the People's Light and Gas company in Chicago.

News of Prospect Heights

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Nielsen entertained Anne's sister and nephew, Mrs. Inez Haney, and Billy Joe, all of last week. Mr. William Haney arrived Thursday evening from East Moline, Illinois. The Haney family have just returned from Lexington, Nebraska, where they had been for the past year. Anne's other sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Maxwell, arrived at the Nielsen home from Pittsburgh Wednesday afternoon, but unfortunately the three sisters did not get to enjoy a long visit since Donna and her husband left again Thursday forenoon. Donna expects to return in about two weeks and spend the summer at Prospect Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schneider of Chicago dropped in at the Nielsen home Sunday evening, just as the Haney family were leaving, and as usual, when the Nielsens and Schneiders get together a very pleasant poker game was enjoyed until the wee sma' hours.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Anderson and family drove up to the north woods, Wisconsin last Wednesday evening and returned Monday afternoon after a very pleasant time fishing.

Mr. Carleton A. Smith left early Monday morning on a much earned fishing trip to Eagle River, Wis.

Mrs. Allan, of Jacksonville, Ill., arrived Saturday afternoon at the home of her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Neagles and she expects to enjoy the summer at Prospect Heights.

Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Neagles and family from California, visited with Jim and Lorene Neagles, and Mrs. Allan. Jim and his brother had not seen one another for the past five years. Mrs. Kirkpatrick, mother of both the Neagles boys and their sister, Berenice, was also a guest during the afternoon. Berenice and her husband and baby daughter, Karren, drove down from Lake Bluff, and a very pleasant family reunion was enjoyed by all. The folks enjoyed dinner and during the afternoon and evening everyone had a grand time playing croquet and other games outdoors.

Mr. and Mrs. John Walworth of Brown county, Ind., and Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Hyatt of Chicago, were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Steele, Sunday afternoon. This was in the form of a family reunion, since Mrs. Hyatt and John Walworth, are sister and brother to Mrs. Steele.

We are glad to report at this time that Mrs. Marion Shepherd returned home from Elmhurst hospital last Sunday evening and is now recuperating very nicely after her operation of a couple of weeks ago.

Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs.

A. E. Raven entertained Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wagner, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Abbe, Mr. Charles Kember and his fiancée Marge. The folks enjoyed a delicious supper and spent the evening playing cards.

Friday afternoon the Ravens enjoyed a grand afternoon visiting Mr. and Mrs. N. Bierma of Oak Park, parents of Mrs. Raven.

Mr. Carleton Smith is away on one of his fishing trips. Here's where we have some fun listening to his tales of the big ones that get away giving us a good opportunity to do some razzing. Yeah! Smitty and the president have something in common, they can go fishing whenever they like but, the president always catches fish that's the difference. Isn't it a good thing Smitty has broad shoulders?

Mr. Chas. Ledyard has just returned from a most enjoyable fishing trip which took him up into the wilds of Canada, on Rainier Lake, where he and his friends tussled with the big ones to catch their quota each day. Chick reports that there are more fish up there that can be caught than you are permitted to catch each day. Say, wouldn't some of these tall fish story tellers hereabouts have a big time up there? Better see Chick if they are interested.

Mrs. Rex Dallstream is feeling much better and it is hoped that she will soon be out of bed and up and around enjoying good health.

Mrs. F. Kaden's mother is again in the hospital quite seriously ill. Mrs. Peters, grandmother, and Mrs. Lederer, mother of Mr. L. Lederer spent the week-end at the home of the Larry Lederers.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Foxworthy, of Louisville, Kentucky formerly of Prospect Heights visited their parents Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Foxworthy over the Fourth week-end.

Congratulations to Mrs. J. Burch, Miss Dolly Kaven and Heather Joyce Hardtke who celebrated their birthdays on July 6th. Heather had the usual birthday party with the trimmings and several relatives were there to greet the birthday child.

Mrs. Vincent I. Shepherd returned from the Elmhurst hospital on Sunday. She is feeling a great deal better and it is hoped that her recovery will be quick enough so that we will again see her enjoying her lovely backyard.

AMERICA FIRST, HELP AND AID TO BRITAIN TO BENEFIT AMERICA

Finnern-Payne Nuptials

In a beautiful floral setting against a background of palms and ferns Miss Evelyn Finnern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Finnern, Milwaukee ave., East Maine, became the bride of Mr. Raymond Rodney Payne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond S. Payne, 3435 Franklin blvd., Chicago. The ceremony was performed in St. Matthews Lutheran church July 5, at five o'clock.

Rev. Julius Toepel, pastor of the church, read the vows which united these two young people in the holy bonds of matrimony using the double ring ceremony. Mr. George Sander played the ever popular wedding marches from Lohengrin and Mendelssohn and accompanied the bride's sister, Mabel, and her brother, Harold, as they sang "O Perfect Love" and "Blest Be The Tie That Binds."

Evelyn was a most charming bride as she came down the aisle escorted by her father. Her gown was of filmy white dotted swiss with a long train and she wore a long flowing veil. Her bouquet was of white stephanotis and white gladioli with showers of the former instead of the customary ribbon streamers.

The three sisters of the bride were in the party. Alma, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of white eyelet embroidery with a touch of green ribbon for color. She carried a bouquet of white daisies.

The four bridesmaids were Mabel and Lillie Finnern, Rose Koelper and Dorothy Koch. Their gowns were the same as the maid of honor but with yellow ribbon instead of green. They carried yellow daisies.

The sweet little flower girl was Jean Kath. She was a picture of the maid of honor in miniature in her long white dress. She wore a daisy corsage and carried a basket of rose petals.

The boys looked very handsome in their summer formals. Leon Payne served his brother as best man. Harold Finnern, Charles Payne, Roy Tagtmeier and George Staikoff were the groomsmen and ushers.

A dinner for about 35 immediate relatives was served at Decker's Hall in Morton Grove, the big reception attended by 200 guests following at the same place at 8:30. Gilbert's Harmony boys provided music for dancing and all had a good time.

The newlyweds left for a week's honeymoon, destination unannounced. Upon their return they will establish their home in an apartment at 850 Graceland ave. in Des Plaines.

LIFE WITH MOTHER

Additional copies of last week's Cook County Herald containing "Life With Mother" (which did not appear in the Arlington Heights Herald) are available at publication office.

Dear Eleanor:

After we left Rob at the station this morning, Jack said: "Mother, let us take the road that leads out to Peter Thompson's house. His parents are having a time of it and his mother sells eggs. You could buy a dozen, couldn't you?" Our regular "egg man" delivers tomorrow, but I thought I could use an extra dozen, so agreed to drive over to Peter's. His name was familiar to me because Jack was so perturbed last winter when their class at school planned a night ride for a certain evening and Peter, lacking any means of transportation, walked the three miles into town to join the other children, only to learn that because of the severe cold, the ride had been postponed. Jack felt badly because there hadn't been any way to notify Peter and mentioned the incident to us several times.

As we drove up in front of what Jack had called a farm house, but in reality, is only a four room shack, I thought I had never seen (except in the hills of Kentucky) such a poverty stricken place. Jack ran around to the rear to be greeted by Peter and three younger brothers, who came tumbling out of the entrance one after the other. Almost immediately, a pleasant faced woman appeared who I learned later, was the boys' mother. Jack explained our mission and Mrs. Thompson called out to me to come in. "Maybe the children would like to see the new kittens?" I hadn't planned to be away from home for very long as I am in the midst of making cherry preserve, but, of course, George and Edward wanted to see the kittens right away and so we walked around the house and found the new family under a back stoop.

Simultaneously, we two mothers began to talk of our families and I soon gathered that the Thompsons are devoted and wise parents. At the same time, my boys were being shown the chickens, the geese and finally hospitable Peter asked if he might take the boys to the garden. This vegetable plot proved to be about three acres. There was nothing to do but follow the children around while Mrs. Thompson pointed out the various growing plants to me and commented: "From the time our boys were two years old, each one has had a garden of their own. They have all ways had pets to care for and we think the responsibility has taught them valuable lessons." It seemed to me, as I walked around this place that had appeared so dejected at first, that maybe we might learn a valuable lesson, too. This good woman never once apologized, except to comment in a casual way, "This is a wretched house, but it was the best we could find three years ago, when my husband's illness and long inactivity made it necessary for us to seek the open spaces."

I wish you could have been with us to meet this unforgettable character and see what she has accomplished with little help in the past three years. She has most of the ground planted with vegetables and around the tumbling house—the most beautiful flowers in the world are growing. Yes, there are a million weeds, but the flowers don't seem to mind, for they are growing in profusion. Her face lights up with a glow, as she stoops to examine some small bud, and as she spoke of how she had grown this bed or that from the seed she had previously gathered and saved, she'd cut off a bloom and hand it to me. I tried to break away several times, for I felt I was keeping her from her many duties, but she appeared so anxious to show me all of her flowers, that I lingered on. "Whenever, I find myself worried over the slightest thing at all, I drop what I am doing in the house and come right out here and dig and dig. I love flowers and they seem to repay me for my care in the comfort I get when I'm with them. You know, I haven't a stick of furniture worth two cents, but my friends are actually jealous of me when they come out here." And, well, they could be, I thought.

To write you that I was a bit overcome by all of this, is to put it mildly. In fact, I could think of very little to say to keep up my side of the conversation, I was so amazed at her courage and philosophy.

We finally found ourselves back in the car. My arms were filled with flowers she had picked, when she remembered some gladioli bulbs she thought I would like to plant, and went to get them. At the same time, directing Peter to the chicken coop for the eggs. Edward had been playing all along with dirt, dumping the dirt and refilling. I took this away from him when I put him in the car and he set up a howl. Nothing would do, but to have that old tin can, so when Mrs. Thompson came back, she said: "Of course, let him take it along. It hasn't sharp edges and it has given him so much pleasure."

As we drove away, I wondered how many of us, placed in a similar situation, would have the courage and stamina to do what Mrs. Thompson is doing and still be able to bring beauty and hope into the lives of her family?

Thank you so much, Eleanor, for the grand salad dressing recipe. I have never had much success with a boiled dressing, it nearly always curdles; but I shall hope for the best with this recipe of yours. Writing about food reminds me that I am feeling positively virtuous these days. All because, I am canning. If there's anything that gives a housewife more satisfaction than seeing her preserve shelves laden with jars of fruit, jams and pickles she has canned, I don't know what it is. Unless, it should be dresser drawers filled with sewing, as in the case at your house. To date, we have home grown strawberry jam, rhubarb, cherries canned for pies and cherry jelly and preserve, all tucked neatly away in the preserve room. And, as in the past, I have some labeled: For Eleanor.

Jack just came in and said: "What, writing to Eleanor, again? What under the sun do you two women find to write about?" Well, we'll never lack for topics to write about, will we? Only I wish it could be like the old days when we were more often together and could talk instead of having to write.

In your last letter, you mentioned the old days when we used to attend the Saturday afternoon performances of the opera at the Auditorium. I, too, feel it would be a tragedy if that magnificent building is torn down. To my way of thinking, the new opera house can't compare with the old. For one thing, it is a recognized fact that the acoustics in the old building are the best of any opera house in the world. It was always pointed out to us students of music, that the real music lovers—and those who particularly understood the operas—had tickets for seats in the balconies and it was true that those in the very last row could hear the faintest pianissimo.

I know I always got an extra thrill when the Italians would jump up at the end of a beautiful aria, clap their hands and shout "Bravo, Bravo!" I noticed, also, that they were the first to show their contempt if the rendition was not to their satisfaction. I think Tito Schipa in Rigoletto will always remain my favorite male singer. Do you remember Florence Macbeth? She sang the lyric part of Gilda and was second to Galli Curci in my esteem. There are many who contend that Curci sang off key on occasions, but I could forgive her that, for no one sang the Bell Song like she did and I remember who shared the same feeling. Her range was phenomenal.

Now that the season is in full swing at Ravinia, I am reminded of the Ravinia of the early days and certainly there is a great contrast between the days when people took their children and a basket lunch and arrived on the park grounds in the early morning and remained until late at night, to the present sophisticated Ravinia with our own Chicago Symphony and venerable Frederick Stock. Did you know that I first went to Ravinia Park with mother and dad and my little sister, in a horse drawn carriage? We left our home in the early hours, dressed in starched gingham and we carried a little valise, as mother called it, in which a complete change of white clothing was kept for us to wear to the afternoon concert. As soon as we reached the park, attendants took charge of the suitcases and we hurried as fast as we could over to the children's playground. Dad left us at this point, as he nearly always went to the stand for the morning baseball game and we didn't see him again until it was time for the picnic lunch. We children rode on the merry-go-round, played in the games with the other children, and sometimes attended a puppet show. After lunch, a blanket was spread and sister and I were told to rest until it was time to "clean up" for the concert.

Walter Damrosch brought an orchestra from New York to launch the first concert at Ravinia had and they were enjoyed and appreciated thoroughly. In the very first days, there were no evening performances by an opera company, so we left for home usually around five o'clock. Later on, we were allowed to stay up very much later on the occasions when we attended the evening performances. The singers were in the habit of strolling around the grounds before and sometimes between the acts, and it was a great treat to see them in their gorgeous costumes, as well as to hear them.

Another of the things I remember about those days at Ravinia, were the containers that were nailed to posts and (sometimes to the trees) which were filled with a solution that was supposed to keep the mosquitos away. There was a slot in which we put a nickel and we then pushed a lever and obtained a quantity of this liquid which we spread as far as possible over our hands and arms. Mother always insisted on dabbing a little on our faces as well, and the awful smell of this stuff lingered during the entire performance. The mosquitos bit anyway, but at the end of a day at Ravinia, we felt it was well worth the inconvenience and pain of the welts we carried home with us.

For the premiere this year, Frederick Stock directed the orchestra in a comedy overture called "Scappino," which had its own premiere in Orchestra Hall recently and followed this number with Deems Taylor's suite "Through the Looking Glass." MacDowell's "In a Haunted Forest" which is a real favorite of mine, was third choice, after which Rachmaninoff's symphony No. 2 in E Minor was given.

I just read where the National Carbon division of the Union Carbide and Carbon Company have developed a mosquito repellent called "Sta-way" which is expected will prove to be the best ever concocted and is supposed to work equally well with deer flies and black flies as well as mosquitos. So, if you plan on going to Ravinia this season, you might take along some "Sta-way."

Do try very hard to come out our way soon and bring Estelle and the boys. We could try a picnic supper on the lawn, if the weather permits. With love from all of us,

Mary.
P. S. I almost forgot to tell you that Jack is taking lessons on the Trombone. Heaven help us!

The Arlington baseball team is really "going to town" these days. Sunday afternoon they whipped the Des Plaines team 15 to 10, and Sunday evening they won again from the famed C.Y.O. team, 6 to 5. All of the boys came up for their share of glory, each of them getting several hits in each game. As yet, we don't know this week's schedule but maybe it will come in before we finish this.

We were all sorry to say goodbye to one of the Arlington Seniors, Violet Paine, last week. She was called home to Whitehall, Wis., suddenly when her father became ill. Violet has been out here slightly less than a year and really made a large circle of friends. She hopes to be able to come back soon, and we will be looking forward to seeing her back.

This seems to be all about Arlington—they went for a moonlight hike Monday evening along the Des Plaines river. Although it was a bit chilly, a lot of them turned out and enjoyed the exercise, good eats, and bonfire.

We've known about this a long time, but have never written it—John Lindhorst, the Bensenville president drafted, has been promoted to a very good position in New Jersey. He really is making good even in the forces, and we will look forward to seeing him back home shortly, too.

Quite a number of our Zone people were among those who took a Fourth of July week-end trip to St. Louis and the Mammoth Cave. We received some cards from there but really couldn't tell you much from them.

That's all for now, and in the meantime, don't forget about the district convention this year which will be held on October 11 and 12 at the same place, Stevens Hotel. All of you who went last year will be there again, of that we're sure, and all the rest should be interested in just this year.

Just heard Arlington team plays Norwood Park Wednesday night, Evidon town team Friday night, and two games with Park Ridge next Sunday. All games are at the north side school grounds. Come out and root for the home teams!

America First Comments

Pity the poor interventionists! With bloody Joe Stalin fighting on the side of the "democracies" they have had their big talking point punctured like a gas balloon.

They have been trying to high pressure the American people into the ugly mess over there by dinning it into our ears, that this is our war. We must get in, we were told, because this is a crusade for democracy, for the four freedoms all over the world. It was all so clear cut. On the one side were the forces of democracy representing all that Americans hold dear. On the other side were all black demons of autocracy and brutality who hated liberty and were determined to destroy it everywhere.

While painting this picture they conveniently forgot to put in some realistic details. They forgot to mention that the British Empire hadn't quite gotten around to handing out the four freedoms to millions of subject people in its vast domain.

They very simply put all the nations opposing the axis in the same hat and labelled it democracy. By no stretch of the imagination, however, could Poland, Greece, Yugoslavia, China be classified as democracies. The supreme rule in these nations was vested in one individual and the people had lost the ballot and representative government just like in Germany.

And now red Russia is projected into the muddled picture to the utter confusion of the fellows who were shouting for all out war in behalf of freedom everywhere. Russia under Stalin and his henchmen represents a complete denial of democratic freedom and even elemental human rights. No opposition is tolerated. All who disagree with the cruel regime have been ruthlessly exterminated. A state controlled drive against religion has destroyed or closed thousands of churches, imprisoned and murdered untold numbers of Christian ministers and believers and the youth of the land has been systematically trained in atheism. Above the entrance to the Kremlin are these words: Religion is the opiate of the people! It has been estimated by objective observers that over 2,000,000 people have been murdered in the periodic "blood purges" against dissenters.

The fly in the ointment for the interventionists is little Finland joining arms with Germany to take back the land which the Russians grabbed as their loot. And what about Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia, and Poland? These little nations have a right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Shall we lend our aid to Russia to help her keep these brave little people in slavery?

This is the time to think the situation thru without emotion. Russia's entrance must make it clear to every American who is not hopelessly bound by European sympathies, that this is not our war. It is not a war for the survival of democracy. If Russia wins in Europe, what nation is strong enough to check the sweep of its hordes over the whole continent? A Russian victory means a communist Europe and the complete destruction of democratic institutions.

All recent polls indicate that the American public is overwhelmingly opposed to go to war even to aid Britain in the defeat of Hitler. What would be the response now since Russia must be inserted into the question: "Shall we go to war to aid Great Britain and Russia to defeat Hitler. A thunderous no is America's answer. Even the war cabinet at Washington must now set up and take notice.

Now is the time to register your no. Write at once to the President and to the congressmen and tell them of your opposition to any act, which means war, declared or undeclared. Your senators are C. Wayland Brooks and Scott W. Lucas. Address them at Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C. Your representatives at large are Wm. G. Stratton, Stephen A. Day, Leonard W. Schuetz is the district representative. Mt. Prospect Bank Has Grown Up With Community

Mount Prospect and the Mount Prospect State Bank have grown up together. Mount Prospect was an unincorporated village in July, 1911, when the Mount Prospect National Bank was organized and started doing business at the corner of Main street and Busse ave. in the building now occupied by the Mt. Prospect Public library.

The tract of land embracing the beginning of Mount Prospect was purchased by E. C. Eggleston, a Chicago Real Estate man, in 1871 or 1872, from the Burke and Rooney families, the earliest settlers. The new community remained in a dormant state over 20 years.

In 1894 William Busse, chairman of the present board of directors, came to Mt. Prospect and built a home at the corner of Main and Busse ave., now the home of William Busse Jr., president of the bank. At this time there were three families living in Mount Prospect: John C. Moehling, father of John P. Moehling, who was the first postmaster and who conducted a grocery store at the corner of Main st. and the Northwest Highway, William Wille, carpenter and contractor, father of Albert Wille a director, and John Meyn, who conducted a blacksmith shop on Northwest Highway. The total population was 35.

Mount Prospect began to grow. Its business interests catered to the farmers and truck gardeners, who retiring from their farms, became residents of the community. A creamery, a complete general store, farm implement agency, a lumber yard, followed by a hardware store, were the nucleus of the business center of today. It was a slow growth, but it was built on a solid foundation.

In 1900 the population had passed a hundred. Ten years later, 1910, it was 225. Among those 225 were men with visions of the future Mount Prospect of today.

They saw the need for a bank and the men who had been instrumental in developing the community were not slow in formulating a financial institution for the growing community. Within a few weeks the preliminary organization work was completed and plans accepted for a bank home with complete vault, furniture and fixtures.

A charter was issued for the bank in June and the bank opened for business July 8, with the following officers: William Busse, president; Ralph L. Peck, vice president; Wm. Busse, Jr., cashier, who served as directors with the following: William Wille, J. F. Everding, George Busse, Waldemar Krause, Henry Holste, Edward Busse.

There was also a need for civic improvements and in the same year as the bank organization the Mt. Prospect Improvement Association was born.

The first goal of the new association was the installation of street lights (oil); grading of roads following and in 1913 a hand pump and chemical engine was purchased. In 1915 the streets were oiled for the first time. By 1916 the association contracted for the replace-

A Million Dollar Institution

Mt. Prospect State Bank is thirty years old this month and it has become a million dollar bank. Total assets June 30 were $1,042,535. Deposits were $928,952. Capital and surplus account is $88,200. The phenomenal growth of this bank during the thirty years of its existence in a community as small as Mt. Prospect is outlined in a souvenir booklet that is being distributed this week to the general public.

When the bank opened for business July 8, 1911, there were less than 200 inhabitants in Mt. Prospect. The early growth of the community and the bank was comparatively slow, but the last few years it has been a different story. Mt. Prospect is today a community of 2,000 inhabitants and it has a bank of which many larger communities would be proud.

Adequate safe deposit boxes were provided in the early years of its existence. As business increased additional bookkeeping equipment was installed. The night depository is used by many business men of the surrounding territory. The Christmas Savings club is being used by an increasing number of depositors each year. The weekly payment plan on insured small loans has been welcomed by many as it provides cash for the wage earner who can qualify at a very low rate of interest. The latest innovation is the Check-Master accounts, which enable persons of relative small means to keep their own bank checking account, the service charge being very small.

Country Club A Social Center

Mount Prospect can boast of the sportiest daily fee golf course in Cook county. Originally established as a private club, it possesses all of the advantages of an exclusive golf club, yet it is open to the public on a daily fee basis.

Its spacious dining room is used frequently for banquets and dances of the surrounding communities. Under the management of Harold Willson it has a reputation for good food that is almost as great as the good golf greens that attracted 30,000 golfers there last season.

Located within the village limits, golf recreation is as near to Mt. Prospect residents as a neighbor's yard. Twilight golf has been attracting many people there the present season. Thirty-six men teams as well as a woman league are in tournament play there several times a week.

The home grounds and walks are beautifully landscaped. There is a homey atmosphere about the place; prices are popular and the average man can golf to his heart's content at Mt. Prospect without overworking the pocketbook.

The golf course was originally established 12 years ago. Facing it are some of Mt. Prospect's finest homes.

"A good bank," states Mr. Willson, "is evidence of the financial responsibility of a community; good schools and churches, the mental caliber of its citizens; but a good golf course is evidence that it is a modern community with ALL social and recreational advantages."

Appreciation from The Men's Club

Mt. Prospect Men's club adds its best wishes with those being expressed by the other civic bodies of the community to the Mount Prospect State Bank, its directors and officers.

In these busy days we seldom take the time to pat a neighbor on the back and say "good boy" and that is all the more reason why the people of Mt. Prospect on the occasion of the 30th anniversary of our bank should join in an expression of appreciation to an institution that has meant so much to the town.

Wm. T. Mott, President.

ment of oil street lights with electric street lights furnished by a private corporation. The same year bricks were purchased for street crossings.

The incorporation of the municipality occurred in 1917 at the recommendation of the improvement association. The first village officials were: William Busse, president; Henry J. Ehard, village clerk; L. C. Busse, H. Beigel, Henry Haberkamp, H. L. Wuerffel, J. W. Pohlman, Ernst Gosch, village trustees; John P. Moehling, police magistrate.

The population in 1920 was 349. It doubled twice in the next ten years and by 1930 it had become 1225. The 1940 census credits the village with 1720 inhabitants. The growth during the past year has been so great that a population of 2,000 is a conservative estimate.

During these years the bank was keeping pace with modern progress. When the bank was only 18 months old it became a member of the Federal Reserve System. In January 1926 the bank's officers and directors decided that the bank could better serve the community by converting the existing National Bank into a state institution. The capital stock was raised to $50,000 and a surplus fund of $25,000 was established.

In the new organization William Busse was elected chairman of the board and William Busse, Jr., president. They have continued in those positions to the present day.

The bank has been a member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation from the beginning. All deposits up to and including $5,000 are government insured.

MOUNT PROSPECT STATE BANK

30th Anniversary

It is with a feeling of great satisfaction that this bank passed on July 8, 1941, its Thirtieth Anniversary with assets over a million dollars and deposits greater than at any period in its history.

The growth of this bank is not the work of any one person or persons. It was brought about by sound banking principles insisted upon by its directors and officers, the loyalty of its employees and the support that has been given to the bank by its depositors and the general public. By working together Mt. Prospect State Bank occupies its position today.

We recognize the obligation we owe to the community and herewith extend our thanks and appreciation for the cooperation that has brought success to this bank and which enables it to provide a maximum of banking service to Mt. Prospect and the surrounding community.

Congratulations to the

Mt. Prospect State Bank

We are proud that we, too, have had a part in the development of Mt. Prospect. A Wille forefather was here when the town started; the Wille family has built many of its homes, supplied the lumber for others and today is furnishing the fuel that is keeping them warm, and a third generation of Wille's is even now on the job prepared to do its part in future town developments for a community that is destined to become a young city.

Mt. Prospect State Bank has served the people of Mt. Prospect thirty years — attending to the financial needs of the community. Albert Wille Lumber & Coal Co. has furnished the materials and fuel for Mt. Prospect homes thirty years — both working together for Mt. Prospect of today.

Busse's Sell Buicks for Thirty Years

It was exactly thirty years ago, the same year that the Mt. Prospect Bank was established that Busses began selling automobiles. The firm of Wm. Busse & Son, organized in 1906 conducting a hardware store and farm implement business, sold their first automobile in 1911. It was an International high wheeler.

Soon afterwards, that firm became a Buick agency and has remained so to this day. The files of the Herald of three decades ago show advertisements of Wm. Busse & Son with illustrations of the early Buicks.

For many years this firm carried the slogan: "When better automobiles are made, Buick will make them; when better automobiles are sold, Busse will sell them." The Busses are still selling the Buicks.

The garage from which were sold the original Buicks was a small structure. The present brick garage was built in 1916. Its showroom each year presents the latest Buick, each one a more perfect automobile than its predecessor.

The Busse name has become synonymous in northwest Cook county with the name "Buick." Operating as Buick Motor Sales, Albert Busse, a member of the original firm today holds the local Buick agency.

Here is a bit of ancient history. Albert has not always been an automobile man. Before the firm of Wm. Busse & Son was organized 35 years ago, Albert's job was to be the hardware end of the business. In order to be a good hardware man, he apprenticed himself to Bray & Kates and worked for nothing until he had grasped the rudiments of the trade. He still thinks he can solder a joint as well as the next man. He can certainly sell Buicks as well as anyone.

Harry E. Turk Co. Have New Method of Home Merchandising

Harry E. Turk Co. is selling new homes in Mt. Prospect over the counter. They have found a way to relieve the home buyer of all the guess work, chances and building worries. This firm delivers the house complete with individual architect plan, financing, building operations, major appliances and insurance. The buyer gets it all with only one or two visits at the Turk office. The prospective resident tells Mr. Turk the number of rooms he needs, the price he is prepared to pay. A few days later the plans are ready for his O. K. or changes. "Then," as Mr. Turk says, "the buyer can take a trip to South America, if he desires and when he returns the house is ready for him to move into."

Mr. Turk is an architect. Before coming to Mt. Prospect he devoted his building operations to north shore properties. He came here three years ago. He soon saw the realty possibilities in Mt. Prospect because as he says, close in development with the better class of homes was not hampered with an undesirable "old part of town." Mt. Prospect is all new.

"I applied here," states Mr. Turk, "the same principles that I knew were successful along the north shore where the business man did not have the time or knowledge to handle his own building operations. I present to a customer a streamlined proposition. The buyer tells me across my desk what he wants in a home, and I deliver it to the nth degree. Sounds simple and it is simple with the organization that I have developed."

Mr. Turk says that he can not build homes fast enough. Last year he made the mistake of halting building operations during the slack season. He will not do it again. He says that he lost 20 sales because he did not have homes when the customers wanted them.

The Turk organization has eleven homes under construction and twenty more will follow as rapidly as possible. They are in the Busse's Eastern subdivision. A good example of the Turk operations can be found on George st., between Evergreen and Lincoln where they line both sides of the street—sixteen of them.

Houses are priced from $8,000 to $15,000. Mr. Turk has only been in Mt. Prospect three years as a resident and this is only his second year of major operations, but he has contributed a lot of growing pep to the community.

Mt. Prospect Fire Department

We shake hands with the Mt. Prospect State Bank. We are twins. Born the same year with the same community as our parents, we are brothers. We were both rather proud of that hand operated fire and chemical engine. That was back in 1913 when you and us were youngsters. As we grew older, we both found many ways to serve the community.

Today we have one of the finest fire fighting equipments for the size of the community in the northwest suburbs, and your bank has become a million dollar institution.

As a member of the fire department 25 years and its chief 12 years I am looking forward to the future confident that this department will serve the Mt. Prospect of the future as well as the Mt. Prospect State Bank will serve its financial needs. May we both be going strong thirty years from now.

Congratulations to Us from Us.

The American Legion

In these days of world unrest it is a great feeling to come home to Mt. Prospect at night and realize that all is well with our home community. As we cut our lawns, trim our hedges and pass the time of day with our neighbor, we forget business and world worries. We are home folks.

As home folks we are interested in each other, our birthdays and our achievements.

The Mt. Prospect State Bank is among our home folks. That bank is thirty years old this week. When we shouldered our guns and answered the call of our country in the other war, your bank "kept the home fires burning." You have helped to keep them going ever since and we have confidence you will be taking your part for another thirty years.

It is with pride that we add our congratulations to others that you are receiving this week.

Victor J. Winn, Commander.

Veterans of Foreign Wars

We, the boys, who "were over there" realize, perhaps, as much as any other group the tragedy that confronts our country today. We also appreciate as much as any other, the liberty that is ours in our country, state and home community.

A good community means good neighbors. As good neighbors we are interested in each other—our successes and our joys. The success of one of any Mt. Prospect resident is good news for all of us. The achievements of the Mt. Prospect State Bank is an achievement of the community in which we are all interested.

As one member of that community and in behalf of Mt. Prospect Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, I extend congratulations to the Mt. Prospect State Bank on this their 30th anniversary.

Chas. H. Holtz, Commander

Mayor Besander

A good bank is a necessity to every progressive community. Mt. Prospect has been fortunate in possessing such a financial institution. Our bank has grown up with us. Its success has been our success. Its birthday is the birthday of the community.

A mayor of the community I extend congratulations to Mt. Prospect State Bank, its officers and its directors. May the bank and the community continue to grow and prosper.

I. E. Besander, Mayor

Mt. Prospect School System

We look with pride at our bank and our schools. Both have grown up with the community. We can see in the future a greater and bigger Mt. Prospect and a school system that will meet the needs of the coming generation.

During the life of our bank, our school has grown from a one room building to a four and then to a six room structure, keeping pace with the educational requirements of the community.

As Mt. Prospect School is the most important part of the village, so is Mt. Prospect State Bank one of the solid bulwarks on which our town is built.

It is with pleasure that I, as president of the Mt. Prospect Board of Education, extend the congratulations of the local public school system to the bank, its officers and directors.

R. E. Salzman.

Mt. Prospect Lions Club

A Lion Roar for the Mt. Prospect State Bank for the thirty years of service that OUR bank has given to OUR community.

The Mt. Prospect State Bank stands for those same principles and from one civic organization to a civic business institution, the 30 members of the Mt. Prospect Lions Club sing.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY
TO YOU

Wm. Schott, President.
L. E. Hodges, Secretary.

Mt. Prospect Woman's Club

We feel that the Mt. Prospect Woman's Club is filling an important place in this community. Our members are the house wives, the mothers and the helpmates who stand ready to do their part in making Mt. Prospect a good place to live and a good place in which to rear a family.

We know that the various activities of our club have been appreciated by the business men and the general public. In return we likewise are happy to recognize this week the 30th anniversary of our local bank.

It is an integral part of the community we love. May it prosper and continue to be representative of the suburb of suburbs—Mt. Prospect.

Mrs. C. H. Angell, President

Hello Neighbor

We extend a welcome to those new neighbors who are new Mt. Prospect citizens. This community is not a place in which to just live. It is your home, where you can enjoy all the things that make life worth living.

We recognize the part that its business firms have taken in its growth up to the present time, but it is now your job and our job to put our shoulders to the wheel to make Mt. Prospect of tomorrow

Mt. Prospect State Bank Aids Building Development

D. G. Clifford, of the Clifford Construction Co., which firm has recently began operations in Mt. Prospect, has some rather nice things to say about the village of Mt. Prospect and its bank.

"I have been in the industrial building game for many years," stated Mr. Clifford, "when I decided to extend operation to residential building. I spent a long time in hunting for the ideal community. I found it in Mt. Prospect. Here I found not only the right community, but also a local bank that gives as complete FHA financing service as the larger Chicago banking institution. This policy of the Mt. Prospect State Bank has materially aided the development of Mt. Prospect and building in many of the neighboring communities. The community is fortunate in having such a bank."

Mr. Clifford takes special pride in the "Cliffstone" that he has used in two homes he has constructed here. The stone is cut by his own organization and lends to a home a substantial atmosphere that is missing in many high priced residences. The first home to be constructed in Mt. Prospect is at 202 So. Hi-Lusi. The second is at the corner of Hi-Lusi and 500 Shabonee Trail, the latter is being built to order for an official of one Chicago's utility companies.

This home has triple insulation, comprising outside sheathing with insulation value, two inches of rockwool and foil type lathing. The house now under construction has six rooms, powder room, tile bath, with attached garage and is in the $11,000.00 class.

Mr. Clifford has acquired a block of lots in the Country Club addition to Mt. Prospect for his future development. Industrial units now under construction by this firm are for the B & O railroad.

Congratulations To

Three cars were involved in a collision on Milwaukee ave. just south of River rd. Thursday when the first stopped suddenly and the others endeavored to ride each other "jiggle-back." Three persons were injured in the melee that involved only Chicagoans.

Sam Campas was driving north when he made a sudden stop. Edward Damman, immediately behind him, crashed into the rear of the Campas auto and was, in turn, hit by Rudolph Lueder.

Mrs. Campas suffered a severe neck injury while Mrs. Lueder and Kay Lueder both received many cuts and bruises. All were taken to the Northwestern hospital with Mrs. Campas later being transferred to Chicago.

He lived in a cheap downtown hotel and was supported by weekly loans from a Chicago sister. He was accustomed to call for the money each Sunday. He failed to call December 18, 1932 and has not since been located or heard from although search for him or his body has been made. He left $500 in small investments which will not cover his debts. State farmers' pride in straight corn rows on wane

Farmers on hilly and rolling farms no longer envy their neighbor whose corn is growing in the straightest rows.

This bit of long-time, good-natured rivalry among farmers is on the wane, as additional farmers in Illinois are adopting the soil-saving practice of planting corn in curving rows on the contour slopes.

Earl Wesner, Crawford county farmer and one of those who put in "curved rows" this spring, said recently that "I've tried all my life to plant straight corn rows, but I can see I've been losing valuable soil."

Contour lines on the Wesner farm and other farms in the RCLW Soil Conservation District were laid out by the farm owners and operators with the assistance of district technicians and local farm advisers.

Experiments in which actual soil losses were measured at erosion experiment fields throughout the middlewest — one of which is at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture — show that fields of contoured corn do not lose as much soil as those planted "up and down the hill," and that contour planting also helps hold a higher percentage of rain where it falls. Economic studies also reveal that contour farming, while saving soil, does not noticeably increase power and labor requirements to farm the land.

Contour farming is one of five practices being stressed in Illinois to enable farmers to get more conservation of physical and human resources and increase the production of foods and feeds needed in the defense program. The other practices are tree planting, seeding of legumes and grasses, spreading of limestone, and pasture improvement. Cooperating with the University of Illinois in the plan are various agencies and services of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Neat appearance Homemakers' aim while traveling

Vacation pleasures for Cook county homemakers will be partially upon how neat they appear when they step into a restaurant after traveling for hours in the family cars.

That unruffled, cool appearance, says clothing specialist, Miss Fern Carl, University of Illinois College of Agriculture, can be retained by traveling in a dark colored, wrinkle-resistant, well tailored dress that doesn't have light, frilly collars and cuffs. Some materials that travel well are well-constructed crepe weaves, various novelty weaves, jerseys, fabrics that have a wrinkle-resistant finish and seersuckers which avoid the "house dress" look and which are guaranteed to retain a permanent crinkle. Selection of the material depends upon a person's judgment, experience and the amount of information which can be obtained from the label or from the sales girl.

Figured materials do not usually show wrinkles nor soil as easily as plain. This means that checks and stripes are good travelers. Smooth fabrics are preferred to very rough, nubby textures.

Vacation clothes, of course, should fit into the rest of the wardrobe, since most people prefer garments which are useful more than a few days of the year, Miss Carl said. However, the idea of wearing any old thing often decreases the pleasure of traveling.

Few women look their best in slacks although some beautiful outfits are to be seen, she said. Costumes, just as colorful, can be worked out by planning pretty accessories along with a sports dress. Miss Carl added that a "special" occasions dress should be taken along but that the other four or five dresses which would be going along just for the ride should be left at home.

Salesmanship puts spinach across at dinner table

Spinach is a good example of a food that needs a little salesmanship by homemakers who are in the food-for-defense and nutrition campaign, says Mary L. Wright, Home Adviser.

Such salesmanship might be poached eggs Florentine, spinach loaf or cheese and spinach roll. The fact that spinach is an excellent source of iron and of vitamins A and C and a good source of vitamins B-1 and B-2, is beside the point so long as the family likes this fresh garden green and eats it. Food authorities point out that the thinner and greener the leaf, the more vitamin A and C it contains. Spinach for canning or freezing must necessarily be young and tender, for the plant becomes woody when old.

Poached Eggs Florentine

Use 2 cups of cooked chopped spinach, 4 poached eggs, 1 cup cheese sauce, 1/4 cup grated cheese, paprika. Put the spinach in a greased casserole, making four depressions in it. Place a poached egg in each depression. Pour cheese sauce over all. Sprinkle with the grated cheese, and dust with paprika. Place in a medium hot oven to brown lightly.

Spinach Loaf

Use 1 1/2 cups of cooked spinach, 2 tablespoons butter, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 2 eggs, 1/4 cup of bread crumbs and a little cheese, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon onion juice or some chopped onion. Drain spinach, saving the water for soup. Rub the spinach through a strainer. Add melted butter, beaten eggs, bread crumbs, cheese and seasonings. Steam or bake as a loaf. Garnish with sliced lemon, hard cooked eggs, white sauce or tomato sauce.

Cheese and Spinach Roll

Use one quart cooked, chopped spinach; 1 tablespoon butter, melted; 1 cup grated cheese; 1 cup cooked rice; 1 teaspoon salt; 1/4 teaspoon pepper; 2 tablespoons ketchup; 1 tablespoon horseradish; 2 hard-cooked eggs; sprigs of parsley.

Mix thoroughly spinach, butter, cheese, rice and seasonings; shape into roll and bake in greased pan in slow oven (325 degrees F.) for 20 minutes. Serve hot garnished with hard-cooked eggs and parsley. Serves six.

Canning Spinach

Wash greens carefully and discard imperfect leaves and tough stems. Heat greens in covered kettle containing small amount of water until completely wilted. Pack into pint jars or No. 2 cans, being careful not to pack too solidly. Add 1/2 teaspoon salt to each pint and pour in boiling water to cover greens. Process in pressure cooker, pint jars... at 15 pounds pressure; No. 2 cans, 55 minutes at 15 pounds pressure.

Freezing Spinach

Use tender, crisp spinach. Wash thoroughly and remove tough stems. Blanch 1 pound of spinach in 3 quarts of boiling water for 1 minute. Remove spinach from hot water, cool quickly in cold water and drain very well. Avoid breaking leaves. Pack in leakproof carton. Seal carton and take to locker.

Local boys are delegates to 4-H camp

At a meeting of the County 4-H club committee, Rollin Busse, of Des Plaines, a member of the Elk Grove 4-H Club, and Elmer Hill, of Roselle, a member of the Schaumburg 4-H Club, were selected to represent Cook county at the 4-H Junior leadership camp, to be held at East Bay, Lake Bloomington, July 28-August 2.

Those representing Cook county last year were Robert Kolze, Bensenville, and Norman Yunker, Orland Park.

The boys were selected on the basis of their 4-H Club work in past years. In camp they will receive help in leadership along with other outstanding boys and girls, from most of the counties throughout the state.

They will gain a great deal of experience that should make them valuable in their community.

Chinch bugs may cause damage in part of Illinois

Moderate to heavy infestations of chinch bugs exist in scattered areas from Rock Island, Henry, Bureau, LaSalle and Will counties on the north to St. Clair, Clinton, Marion, Clay and Lawrence counties on the south, according to W. P. Flint, entomologist of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture and State Natural History Survey.

Flint, who is chairman of the state pest control committee, reports that examinations made in different parts of this area show about one field of wheat in six or seven to be carrying sufficient numbers of chinch bugs to cause serious damage to adjoining corn, if no attempt is made to check the spread of the bugs at harvest time.

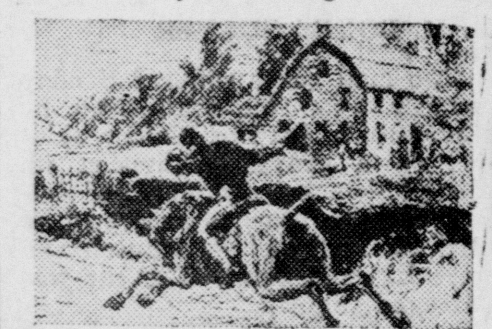

Heavy rains can, of course, change the situation between now and the time of wheat harvest so that no barriers will be needed. On the other hand, if the weather continues dry, barriers will be needed in many local areas.

With this type of scattered infestation, Flint says it is difficult for county chinch bug control leaders to estimate the amount of barrier material that will be needed. Federal creosote will probably be available in tank cars.

The most effective, least expensive and easiest barrier for stopping the advance of chinch bugs to corn fields from small grain is the treated paper-strip barrier. A four-inch creosote-treated paper strip is set two inches deep in a narrow furrow run along the brow of the ridge. Posthole traps, into which the young bugs tumble, are dug every 15 feet.

Farmer increases milk production by better feeding

How Illinois dairy farmers, through better feeding and management of their cows, can increase milk production for defense and at the same time receive financial benefits is demonstrated by a Grundy county dairy herd improvement association member, reports J. G. Cash, extension dairy specialist of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

Through better feeding, this member obtained 12.9 per cent more milk and $5.10 greater returns above feed costs from his eight cows in April than in March.

The increase in milk production and returns is attributed to a change in the grain ration from corn-and-cob meal in March to a mixture containing corn-and-cob meal, ground oats and soybean meal in April. The eight cows were fed roughages of similar amounts and qualities both months and all cows were milked both months without freshening.

Increasing milk production 6 to 8 per cent under the U. S. Department of Agriculture's recently announced food-for-defense program simply means producing one pound more of milk a day a cow, Cash said. This can easily be accomplished by better feeding and management.

LAW on the FARM by C. A. HUGHES

Employment of Farm Youth — Increased industrial activity is making it possible for many farm boys and girls to find permanent or summer employment either in large cities or in industries located near their homes. This focuses attention on the Illinois Child Labor Law.

By its terms children under fourteen years of age shall not be employed or permitted to work for or in connection with any "theatre, concert hall, place of amusement, mercantile institution, store, office, hotel, laundry, manufacturing establishment, mill, cannery, factory or workshop within the state." Minors past the age of 14 and less than 16 may be employed in the foregoing occupations provided a certificate of employment is first secured from the county superintendent of schools or from a person designated by him to issue such certificates. Before such a certificate can be issued, an application must be made by the minor and his parent or guardian. The application must contain required information concerning the school record, physical fitness and age of the applicant. Also the prospective employer must submit information about the character of the work to be done, hours per day and days per week.

The county superintendent may issue vacation certificates covering the period between school terms. These are subject to the same conditions as regular certificates, except that a school record is not required. In the case of minors more than 16 years of age, an employer may insist upon having an over-age certificate to furnish proof of age in case he is prosecuted under the terms of the Child Labor Law for the illegal employment of minors. Over-age certificates are also issued by the county superintendent of schools or by someone authorized by him. According to the law a transcript of the birth certificate, a baptismal certificate, a passport or other evidence of age may be accepted. After the over-age certificate is issued to the minor, it is presented to the employer who retains it as long as the minor is in his service. At the termination of the service, the minor is entitled to have the certificate returned to him.

A proviso in the act states that "nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent any minor under the age of fourteen years from doing voluntary work of a temporary and harmless character, for compensation, when school is not in session, with the consent of parent or guardian, nor shall any provision of this act be construed to prevent any board of education or the school directors of any school district from substituting vocational education under its supervision for academic education."

The law referred to is known as the Illinois Child Labor Law and may be found in the Illinois Revised Statutes, Chapter 48, sections 17-31. It is administered by the State Department of Labor.

Wheat growers subject to quotas

Wheat growers subject to marketing quotas who want their acreage measured to determine the exact amount of their marketing excess are advised to call or write the Cook County Agricultural Conservation Committee.

The marketing excess will be determined by multiplying the acreage in excess of the AAA wheat allotment times the listed yield, unless the grower proves his actual yield is smaller.

An allotment has been set for each farm in the county. It is expected that some growers will want their acreage measured so they will know exactly how many acres they have planted above their allotment.

After the marketing excess is determined, growers will have to pay a penalty of 49 cents a bushel, or if the marketing excess is stored, post bond at the rate of 49 cents a bushel or put money in escrow at the rate of 49 cents a bushel for each bushel of excess wheat. They will then receive a marketing card which will allow them to market their wheat.

Paying the penalty means permanent loss of money, but will allow for marketing of all the wheat. If growers store their wheat and put up bond or escrow, they can receive a loan at the rate of 60 per cent of the regular loan rate. The bond or escrow money will be returned when marketing quotas are no longer in effect and the loan is repaid.

Gems of thought

LAW AND JUSTICE

Law is the embodiment of the moral sentiment of the people.

—Blackstone.

A law is valuable not because it is law but because there is right in it.

—Henry Ward Beecher.

I believe in obeying the laws of the land. I practice and teach this obedience, since justice is the moral significance of law. Injustice denotes the absence of law.

—Mary Baker Eddy.

What we seek is the reign of law, based upon the consent of the governed and sustained by the organized opinion of mankind.

—Woodrow Wilson.

Our human laws are but the copies, more or less imperfect, of the eternal laws, so far as we can read them.

—James Anthony Froude.

There is but one law for all, namely, that law which governs all law, the law of our Creator, the law of humanity, justice, equity — the law of nature and of nations.

Filling home coal bin now will aid defense program

Putting in the winter's coal supply now is being advocated by home account authorities of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture on the basis of word from the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply, Washington, D. C.

Not only are householders encouraged to arrange for as much of the winter's supply of coal as they can handle, but they are even being advised to make credit arrangements so that the coal bin can be filled right away.

Furthermore they are told that the earlier they buy coal, the more money they will save, according to the present prices.

Purchase of coal now will be a real contribution to the defense program because transportation of coal can be facilitated now whereas in the fall railroads will have the double problem of meeting industrial demands made heavier by the defense program and also a large civilian demand.

"To get out of this coming tight spot," OPACS officials say "families will have to start buying coal at the rate of 2,500,00 to 3,000,000 tons a month more than is usual for the summer."

"Coal," they point out, "normally accounts for 30 per cent of the total rail traffic of the nation. October is typically a peak month for coal shipments as well as the high point of the normal year for traffic generally. What must be done is to relieve that October peak as much as possible by having an increased quantity of coal shipped during the summer."

Anticipating that many homes do not have the capacity to store several tons of coal, defense authorities suggest that householders build inexpensive bins. Plywood, lumber, tile and concrete are satisfactory materials.

Curbing accidents on farms help in national defense

Good farm labor is needed far too much to be wasted by farm accidents, R. C. Hay, extension agricultural engineer of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, said this week in commenting on the importance of farm labor for national defense.

Farm safety not only aids in the national food-for-defense program but it also permits more efficiency in farming and prevents wasted time and energy, Hay said.

Replacing worn parts of machines, tightening loose bolts and making other needed repairs may prevent numerous accidents. It is best to adopt the practice of making all needed repairs before the machines are stored in their shed and also to make periodic check-ups of the equipment, Hay commented.

High school boys in demand on vegetable farms

"Labor on vegetable growing farms will be very acute this season," states Farm Adviser C. A. Hughes. "There are many reasons why this is true, therefore vegetable growers will probably be looking to any other possible sources of labor that they may secure."

"Perhaps the best supply of extra labor that can be gotten by a vegetable farmer is the town or city high school boy who is home for summer vacation. These boys, farmers report, are usually alert, very industrious, and dependable. They are easier to instruct on how to harvest crops than the average worker and agreeable to work with."

"We suggest to the average high school boy who would like to have a job this summer during the vegetable harvesting season to contact growers for a job. Harvesting will begin between July 15 and August 1, and it will run on through the season until school begins in the fall. Since many of the farm boys have gone into military service, and wages have attracted many of the farmers' best help away, and since food (especially vegetables) is being called on as a national defense project, may we suggest to the average high school boy that he can make himself some money and at the same time serve a useful purpose in spending a part of his vacation in harvest work on some of the vegetable farms in the vicinity of Cook county."

gram but it also permits more efficiency in farming and prevents wasted time and energy, Hay said.

Replacing worn parts of machines, tightening loose bolts and making other needed repairs may prevent numerous accidents. It is best to adopt the practice of making all needed repairs before the machines are stored in their shed and also to make periodic check-ups of the equipment, Hay commented.

Strong Field to Vie for Paddock Publications' Trophies

District's 36 leading amateurs open links tourney at Mohawk Sun.

Mt. Prospect C.C. enters twelve stars to challenge supremacy of large Bensenville list

by TOMMY KOUZMANOFF

Thirty-six of the leading amateur golfers of the district are no doubt busy cleaning their clubs, as well as polishing up on their game this week, in preparation for the first 18-hole round of the Paddock Publications 1st Annual Amateur Golf Tourney at Mohawk Sun.

The list of entries was comparatively small was probably due to the reluctance of some of the less experienced players to submit their names to the public. However, they were welcome to compete. A limited number of entries will be accepted at the tee this Sunday only. Failure to answer the starter's call at the given time this Sunday means disqualification. Transportation difficulty or a brief physical ailment will be the only tardiness excuses accepted.

Mt. Prospect C. C. Challenges Bensenville Domination

Our last week's story headline "Bensenville golfers dominate Paddock Publications tourney entry list" was not intended as bait for more entrants but Harold Willson, owner and manager of Mt. Prospect Country Club, could see no reason why his club could not match the Bensenville entry list with his having four twilight leagues of over a hundred golfers from which to pick. Eleven shot-makers will carry Mt. Prospect's colors.

A tournament favorite? We're too tired. You pick one—Bobby Schuler, Ernie Simmons, Carl Litta, Glanz Dierking, Johnny Alonge, Bobby Geils, or even Nick or George Kouzmanoff. All of these lads and gentlemen are consistently in the low 80s and very often in the upper 70s. Our guess is that 155 for the 36 holes will suffice for low gross.

Important Rules Change In Tournament Ties

Previously we had announced that ties would be decided on the following Sunday (July 27) over the 18-hole route. Here is the tournament ruling on ties for low gross honors: The players tied for low gross after 36 holes of play shall play extra holes on the afternoon of July 20 until one player has the lowest score on a hole. Ties for low net will determine by draw.

A player or players figuring in both ties (low gross and low net) shall first play in the low gross playoff.

If unsuccessful in the playoff their names shall be included in the draw of slips for low net. We have adopted these systems of determining champions despite ties in advice from the Chicago District Golf Association. Special tournament rules will be explained to each threesome of contestants before they leave the first tee.

Attention Contestants! Last Tournament Instructions!

Report your presence Sunday to the tournament chairman at the first tee immediately upon your arrival. He will check on your starting time as well as direct you to the locker room. Do not hesitate to report any irregularities to the committee. This we believe—and hope—will not be necessary. Failure to turn in your score card at the 18th hole means disqualification from the second round.

Arlington Twilight Golf league

The festivities on the evening of July 3 were marred by the absence of a good number of the regulars, who failed to notify their team captains. Many of the foursomes were not complete. All players are requested to notify their team captain in advance of their inability to attend, so alternates may be secured.

The Willson Realtors and Winkelman Tires shared honors for the evening with six points each out of a possible eight. The individual honors went to Ken Heimlich with a 40, with the next five tied at 41. Team standings are as follows:

Brenda Marshall learns 'Tease' from experts

Reason why Brenda Marshall and boy friend Bill Holden were almost nightly third row customers at one of Los Angeles' South Main street burlesque houses recently, was revealed. Brenda had to do a very modified and a quite modest "strip" for "Footsteps in the Dark," showing at the Palatine Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

"As long as I had to do it, I wanted to do it right. No better way to learn than to watch the experts. That broken-step, undulating glide is not an easy thing to do. But now I think I have it," said Brenda.

Hal Roach's latest comedy production, "Road Show," which is slated for its local premiere at the Palatine Theatre also on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday thru United Artist release, has a cast which boasts no less than nine of the top-flight names in film comedy. This impressive line-up includes Adolphe Menjou, Carole Landis, John Hubbard, Patsy Kelly, George E. Stone, Charles Butterworth, Polly Ann Young, Margaret Roach and James Arthur. In addition, "Road Show" introduces for the first time on the screen "The Charloters," the immensely popular radio team which makes its screen debut singing a group of Hoagy Carmichael tunes written especially for the picture.

Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, and Dorothy Lamour are starred in the screen's funniest hit, "Road to Zanzibar" this Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

Eccentric tap dancers, negro team, spotlight 'The Great Am. Broadcast'

That outstanding team of eccentric and tap dancers Harold and Bayard Nicholas, are again seen in a 20th Century-Fox production, starring Alice Faye, John Payne, Jack Oakie and Cesar Romero, "The Great American Broadcast," which comes to the Catlow theatre Sunday and Monday.

They are back by popular request after their sensational performances in "Down Argentine Way" and "Tin Pan Alley."

The terrific young Negro dancers are featured in "The Great American Broadcast" with Mary Beth Hughes, the Wiere Brothers and the Four Inkspots.

Brian Aherne plays two entirely dissimilar roles in Universal's hilarious comedy, "The Man Who Lost Himself," coming to the Catlow theatre on Tuesday. Aherne, who co-stars with Kay Francis, will be seen as a worthless no-good, man-about-town, involved in scandal, heavily in debt and estranged from his wife in one of the roles. In the other, he is the exact opposite, an honest, temperate business man.

The comedy situations arise when Aherne, as the young business man, awakens after a night of carousing, to find himself installed in the no-good's home, and he is unable to convince anyone, including the latter's wife, that he is who he is—and not whom they insist he is.

Double featured on Tuesday with "The Man Who Lost Himself" is "The Pinto Kid," starring Charles Starrett, with Louise Currie and the Sons of the Pioneers.

With the blazing pageantry of Spain providing the colorful background for Tyrone Power's most powerful role, 20th Century-Fox's latest Technicolor hit, "Blood and Sand," has been called a magnificent, tensely exciting and colorful film. This latest picture produced by Darryl F. Zanuck, coming to the Catlow theatre for 3 days beginning Wednesday, featuring Linda Darnell and Rita Hayworth who head the famous name cast.

To faithfully capture the rich colors of the Spanish costumes, architecture and atmosphere, Director Rouben Mamoulian took his Technicolor camera crew and troupe of 300 to Mexico City, where old Spain still survives in the new world. Amidst gem-encrusted costumes and the Latin atmosphere, the dramatic narrative of "Blood and Sand" took form.

Des Plaines theatre installs hearing aids

Recently installed at the Des Plaines Theatre are ear phones, now available to patrons handicapped by deafness. This new service brings the magic and beauty of the talking screen to many heretofore denied this pleasure. There is no increase in the regular admission prices to patrons availing themselves of the use of these new hearing aids.

Currently showing at the air conditioned Des Plaines Theatre is the great musical production "Ziegfeld Girl" starring Lana Turner, Hedy Lamarr, James Stewart and Judy Garland. On Sunday, "That Night in Rio" opens for a three day run, double featured with "The Lady From Cheyenne." Alice Faye, Don Ameche and Carmen Miranda are the stars of "Night in Rio," which is shown in beautiful Technicolor. Loretta Young and Robert Preston are co-starred in the "Lady From Cheyenne," with Edward Arnold prominently featured in the cast.

MUSIC NEWS AND VIEWS

by E. D. HERRICK

About this time of year my pupils begin selling me tickets on cars and houses that are being given away in each of the towns in which I teach; I always buy one or two but never win.

The Wednesday before the 4th I was just crawling into bed about 11:15 when the phone rang and it was for me. One of my pupils in Des Plaines was on the line and my number had just been drawn for one of the nightly prizes in their festival; I had forty-five minutes to get there and claim my prize, a bath room scale. I got there in twenty minutes! And so my years of buying tickets has at last paid its first dividend, thanks to a wide awake pupil!

In the fourteen years in which I have been teaching, I have never had a pupil who suffered an accident on the Fourth of July but this year, the last one for firecrackers and such like, had to be the exception. Ray Kosla, in Downers Grove, had a bunch of firecrackers in his pocket, the remains of a day of firing. Somehow one of them ignited and the whole batch went off in his pocket, severely burning him and his clothing. I am mighty glad the state law on fireworks has been passed but just the same, the Fourth isn't going to seem natural without them is it?

Are you having trouble making your youngster practice these hot days? Your best remedy is to get him up early, while it is still cool, and have him do it then; it isn't so hot and sticky and he's fresh from a good night's rest and able to benefit twice as much from his work.

CYO, Leos and Hoppers Win in Opening Round of 2nd Half of Softball Play

by RAYMOND HAYES

The second round of play in the Arlington Softball League opened last week with enough action and excitement to indicate a thrilling race for the play-off berth.

C.Y.O. repeated its first round victory over Heidorn, this time by the convincing score of 8-3.

Leo's Barbers again took the Iroquois scalps, with a score this round of 9-6.

Creamery Package had Hoppers 6-1 in the third inning, but blew the lead and lost 9-7.

Gaare had Benjamin Electric down 7-0 going into a much-delayed fifth inning when a driving rainstorm ended the game. Benjamin holds a first-round 7-4 decision over the Studebakers.

A new umpire made his debut in the Benjamin-Gaare game. Gaare's scored five runs in the first and held Benjamin scoreless thereafter.

Threatening rain held off inning after inning as the Electric stalled for time, but finally fell in the fifth. With Gaare's claiming the game on a forfeit, no final decision has been made on the outcome.

Leo's Barbers had steeper pitching and better slugging in their game with Bensenville.

Ed. Mueller allowed six hits and two walks, while "Kiki" Eickelman walked eight and gave up ten hits.

A double by Robertson and a bargain homer by Jennings were the extra-base hits for Iroquois. For the Barbers Kouzmanoff, Bauer and Anstedt doubled and Wilbert Becker blasted two triples.

Creamery Package had more hits against Hoppers, 9-8, but also had more men left on bases, so the Creamery team lost its seventh start of the season.

Dick Busse's homer in the third and Duttonhauer's similar blast in the fourth, each with a man on, were high points in the Hopper rally which erased an early 6-1 deficit.

Ray Willert finally got around to playing a softball game for Creamery, now that the corn and potatoes are all in good shape, and came up with a home run in the third.

Heidorn's Sweet Shoppers blew wide open against C.Y.O. on Thursday night. Trailing 4-1 after two innings, they never found their stride, committing six errors and making frequent misplays.

C.Y.O. collected twelve hits to

All star softball game Sunday eve

The Arlington Softball League will put on an exhibition game Sunday evening, July 13, between two picked teams chosen from among all the players in the circuit. As in other years the out-of-town teams will furnish the players for one team, the local teams for the other.

Benjamin Electric, Hoppers of Mt. Prospect, Iroquois A. C. of Bensenville, and the Creamery Package team will supply the players to be managed by Ray Kehoe of Iroquois. Fred Brehm has had the rosters of C.Y.O., Gaare, Heidorn, and Leo to draw from. Kehoe's selections are not available yet, but Brehm's players are as follows.

From C.Y.O.: L. Brodnan, L. K. Brodnan, A. Mayerck, M. Taylor.

From Leo: H. Becker, Kelling, T. Kouzmanoff, Ed. Mueller.

seven for Heidorn. Menella walked five men, Steve Urik and Charlie Nick gave only one pass.

Menella was a very effective pitcher, holding Wulbecker hitless, Huber to one in four, and keeping other Heidorn sluggers well in check.

Meeskes A. C. of Mt. Prospect won an exhibition game on the Fourth from a team selected from the league players. Scoring two runs in the sixth, seventh, and ninth innings after "Red" Koelling's fifth inning single had set up a two run lead for the home team, the Meeske team checked a late rally and won 6-4.

Art Hildebrandt had two doubles and the Laurance brothers one each. Ray Meyer doubled and L. K. "Fireball" Brodnan tripled for the home team.

Eickelman pitched for the picked team. The hurling for Meeskes was done by "Augie" Calanca who last year starred for the Wheeling entry in the Arlington League.
